ABSTRACT

A supplementary survey of Dissertation Abstracts and other periodicals in English has resulted in this updated bibliography which covers material published since the original survey in 1968 (ED 037 060). Unlike the original survey, however, no German dissertations are listed. The works are divided into two categories: dissertations or other published material. Each category is further divided into subsections according to topics: instructional television (ITV) in elementary and high schools, ITV in colleges and universities, ITV in teacher training, television as a research instrument, attitudinal studies, educational television (ETV), television handbooks, and television surveys and bibliographies. Each entry provides the author, title, date of publication, and source. For documents available from University Microfilms or from ERIC, the appropriate ordering number is provided, although no further ordering information is given. An author index is included. (JY)

TELEVISION AS A TECHNICAL AID IN EDUCATION AND IN PEDAGOGICAL AND PSYCHOLOGICAL RESEARCH: A BIBLIOGRAPHY (CONTINUED)

Abstract. - The report is a supplementary bibliographic account to report No. 24 in this series concerning television as a technical aid in education and in pedagogical and psychological research. The main stress in this report lies on English dissertations from the period 1968-1970. To some extent other published material in English language is also included.

INTRODUCTION

We published in the series "DIDAKOMETRY" report No. 24 a bibliography about television as a technical aid in education and in educational and psychological research. That report contains publications up to 1968.

Our research work has resulted in a supplementary survey of the dissertation abstracts and several periodicals in English up to the present time. The purpose of this report is to give additional information about these publications. The published material included in this report has been organized according to report No. 24 as follows:

1. Dissertations
2. Dissertations (German) have been excluded
3. Other published material

Each main category is divided into the following sub-sections:

1. Instructional Television (ITV) in Elementary and High School
2. Instructional Television (ITV) in College and University
3. Instructional Television (ITV) in Teacher Training
4. Television (TV) as a Special Research Instrument in Educational and Psychological Research
5. Attitudes toward Instructional Television (ITV) and Educational Television (ETV)
6. Educational Television (ETV)
7. Television: Handbooks and Technology
8. Television: Surveys and Bibliographies

To facilitate the use of this bibliography three indices have been included. One lists general abbreviations, the second lists the accepted abbreviations of the periodicals cited, and the third is an alphabetically arranged authors' index.

The main work on the examination of the source material and the alphabetical arrangement of the titles has been carried out by Mr. Bengt-Olof Ljungberg.

I wish to express my gratitude to him, and to Mrs. Ann-Kristin Larsson and Mrs. Alice Pertzig for typing the manuscript.
